

ECE210 : Positive Behavior Guidance in ECE

This course provides strategies to promote developmental^ appropriate positive guidance for young children in a group context. Emphasis is to prepare young children to become confident and cooperative individuals, placing a strong foundation on social emotional learning. Using the pyramid model, Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE) and other resources, strategies for identifying risk factors, conflict resolution, and crisis management techniques, will be studied. Exploration of topics related to positive guidance will include family engagement, cultural competencies, curriculum design, environment classroom design and classroom management tools, in tandem with theories and current research.

Credits 3

Lab Hours 0

Class Hours 3

Prerequisite Courses

ECE121L: Growth and Development of the Young Child