

POLS231L : American Government

This introductory course in government examines the relationship between government, politics, and power. Students discuss how people in a representative democracy can effect change in government to address current and future needs.

Credits 3

Lab Hours 0

Class Hours 3