

Adding a Course

Students may add courses to their schedule up to and including the seventh (7th) calendar day of the semester, providing there is space in the class. A course may be added after the seventh (7th) calendar day of the semester only with the permission of the instructor.