

AUTO129L : GM Automotive Electricity I

This course introduces the student to the theory and application of electricity, magnetism, and electronics. This includes reading, understanding, and applying the information from GM schematics and service literature to diagnose the integrated electronic control systems used on today's GM vehicles.

Credits 3

Lab Hours 0

Class Hours 3