

CIS130L : Computer Ethics Privacy and Security

This course provides students the skills to use modern technology. Topics include computer ethics, techniques to protect privacy and how to protect your devices from malicious attacks. Students will learn terminology as well as examine current trends and laws concerning technology. Students will also learn how to safeguard against health hazards that can be associated with computer use.

Credits 1

Lab Hours 2

Class Hours 1